YOU COULD SAVE $2,000 OR MORE WITH OUR OIL TANK WARRANTY PROTECTION

TANK-GUARD® protects your oil tank.

Oil storage tanks are durable and well designed, but they are subject to corrosion and eventually need to be replaced. The life of an oil storage tank is impossible to predict and the most common cause of failure is from internal corrosion. If your oil tank needs to be replaced it could cost YOU upwards of $2,000. We realize that in today's economy that is a huge bite out of your budget.

That's why we are offering you our TANK-GUARD Oil Tank Protection Program. It's a proactive service that protects your tank against damaging internal corrosion with an effective corrosion inhibitor and also protects you financially with a tank warranty that can replace a leaking tank at no charge (your only cost may be for a permit and required safety upgrades if necessary). What is internal corrosion and why do I need Oil Tank Protection?

Internal corrosion is the most common cause of oil tank failure. Water is the primary culprit! Water condenses from the air inside your oil tank and sinks through the oil to the bottom where acidic sludge develops. This sludge causes corrosion which can lead to tank failure.

The TANK-GUARD liquid rust inhibitor is poured into your oil tank during a normal oil delivery once every year. It will protect your tank against internal corrosion and give you the financial security of a tank warranty.

"We recommend the TANK-GUARD® Oil Tank Protection Program for all our customers."
